The diagram illustrates a web page header layout divided into three main sections:

- header: Contains a figure element, which is a Logo image.
- nav: Contains a ul (unordered list) element, which is a Navigation bar. Inside the ul are three li a (list item with anchor) elements, each representing a Navigation Link.
- div: Contains two elements: an input text field and a button.

The diagram illustrates a web page layout. A large rectangle represents the main container, labeled "main" in the top left corner. Inside this container, there is a "figure" element on the left side, which is a vertical rectangle. To the right of the "figure" element, there is a large rectangular area labeled "Background Image". Below the "figure" element, there is a "div" element, which is a smaller rectangle. Inside the "div" element, there is a "h3" element labeled "h3 Title" and an "a" element labeled "a Subtitle".

Contact us Section

The diagram illustrates three different article layouts, each with a main title and a subtitle, and a corresponding figure label.

- By Post: The article title is "By Post" and the figure label is "article figure". The layout shows a main title "h3 Title" and a subtitle "h4 Subtitle".
- By Phone: The article title is "By Phone" and the figure label is "article figure". The layout shows a main title "h3 Title" and a subtitle "h4 Subtitle".
- FAQ: The article title is "FAQ" and the figure label is "article figure". The layout shows a main title "h3 Title" and a subtitle "h4 Subtitle".

Diagram illustrating a horizontal navigation bar structure:

- A section header is positioned on the left.
- A Follow Us label is centered above the navigation items.
- The navigation bar contains five items, each consisting of a list item (li) and an image (img).
- The third item is highlighted with a box labeled h5 and Title, indicating it is the active page.
